

A winter scene in Bruges, Belgium, featuring a stone bridge over a canal with a large Gothic building in the background. The scene is captured in a cinematic style with soft lighting and a cool color palette. The bridge is a simple stone arch, and the water reflects the sky and the building. The building is a large, multi-story Gothic structure with many windows and a prominent spire. The trees are bare and covered in snow, and a few people are walking on the bridge.

Conference on

'Engineering Education for Sustainable Development'
Building a circular economy together

Bruges, 4 - 7 September 2016

Welcome

It is a privilege to organise the 8th Conference on 'Engineering Education for Sustainable Development' EESD2016, from 4 - 7 September, 2016 in Bruges, Belgium. Being involved from the start of this series of conferences, we have seen maturing the understanding of the 7 W-questions.

- What is EESD all about?
- Where is EESD taking place?
- Who is a champion in EESD?
- How is EESD implemented?
- Why is EESD important?
- What if EESD doesn't work out?
- To whom is EESD addressed?

Attending an EESD-conference these days, allows you to have a better understanding, to contribute to the further development and to get feedback from colleagues on your own practices.

Each of the conferences has been focusing on a theme. EESD 2016 addresses the challenge of 'Building a circular economy together' by analysing the implications for engineering education. Furthermore, at the conference – under the heading of 'Beyond the triple helix', beyond an interaction between academia, industry and public authorities – the involvement of other stakeholders in formulating the expectations towards engineers will be debated.

You are very much welcome to join us at EESD 2016 in the beginning of September 2016.
Hopefully we can meet in Bruges, Venice of the North!

On behalf of the organisers,
Bernard MAZIEN, coordinator

Building a circular economy together.

EESD 2016 is the 8th conference in a series of biannual international conferences dealing with all aspects of the education of engineers for sustainable development. It is the premiere forum for contributing to, and learning about, engineering education for sustainable development. EESD 2016 will be held in the beautiful medieval City of Bruges (Belgium) at the campus of HOWest, part of the Association Ghent University.

The themes of the Conference 'Engineering Education for Sustainable Development 2016' include:

- circular economy;
- technological and societal innovation;
- multi-, inter- and transdisciplinarity;
- innovative teaching technology/organisation;
- lifelong learning.
